ABSTRACT

This century belongs to India which will become a unique intellectual powerhouse.....capturing all its glory, which it had in the millennia gone by. These words show that a new vigour and confidence prevailing in the country, on its march to have a stake in the emerging New Global Order. In the upcoming Global Order, what the world has been witnessing is a revolution of rising expectations. People the world over, wants results. They want a right expectation and infrastructure for growth and better living through Good Governance and Development Administration. Hence there should be a firm and time bound global commitment for boosting this emergence.
